Passing the Torch Through the Arts

Still the only multicultural, multigenerational, educational, professional theater company in the Hudson valley.

We Passed the Torch last week and donated a show for "Notes for Haiti". We performed a twenty minute excerpt from Toussaint L'Overture. We performed with the students of Bard, at the Fisher Center... Eva and Maya stole the show.

As part of our Arts Community...

How can you get involved?

This month we have been very busy, paying the rent and our dues. This commercial shoot in Manhattan was a top shelf professional production. Gigs like this keep our chops and let us know that what we have is still marketable.

In May, we have three readings about the two subjects that you should never bring up at a dinner party....

(We are presenting 1st drafts of our 2011 sesaon)

There are two subjects you're not supposed to bring up at a dinner party they are: Religion and Politics and our three play readings in May are primarily about ...

"Obama: What have we done?"

Two top magazine writers from across political fence must collaborate to write a balanced biography of our President. They use hypothetical scenarios and text from actual speeches to uncover the Real man behind the smoke screen.

"Time Bomb: J Edgar Hoover and Malcom X"

In 1963, the United States was on the verge of Civil War. A war over the most volatile issues facing America: Civil rights, Religion and Race. These two men had a confrontation of philosophies that could only end one way...explosion.

The third play we are opening as we begin our 2011 season is a 20 minute preview of

"Toussant L'Overture: The Fire that never dies!"

In 1792, a revolution started that would pit a small slave island

Artistic Director's Note

We are constantly changing and growing. We are always looking to produce and showcase new and emerging voices of all ages in the Hudson Valley and beyond. If you have a show that is crying out "Someone produce me!" and you are willing to help us with the legwork then come join us. We are reestablishing ourselves here in the Duchess county, so we are in dire need of more actors of all shapes and sizes, but if you have a passion for the theater arts, chances are we have a place for you. So call me 845-901-6820. or email me at passingthetorchthroughthearts@gmail.com and let's talk soon.

From our family to your family: Health, wealth and happiness.

Sincerely,

Passing the Torch Through the Arts
