crowd and great comments.

We were so proud to present these two Hudson Valley treasures. Also to our fine performers: Pat Gallio, Jean Moss and Judy Memsner we applaud your fine work.

The Lab is catching on. We are attracting many new and established writers and local actors to our events and encourage them to come, and to bring acting projects as well as original writing material to share with our group and to perform at our staged events.

This Month is April and our theme is the Jewish Family in Honor of Passover. April 1st 1933 was the day that Hitler officially boycotted Jewish owned business and began his public policies that led to the atrocities against the Jews. We also offer a World War 2 Love story to balance the readings.

(Selected scenes from) Lost in Yonkers, Neil Simon's Pulitzer Prize winning work will be read. The play examines a family struggling to survive in the not too distant past. It is breathtaking in its humanity.

Anna Mione's "Between the Sheets", this play is about a wartime romance in the life of a famous WW II photographer and is based on actual events.

We are still looking for all level of actors to read these works and for other lab projects so actors please come ready to join in.

Lab starts at 6:00pm and is $5.00 for writers.
Performance starts at 8:00pm and is $10.00 for the general public.

Come Catch
the Fire of Inspiration!

Lab #1 March 2011 just warming up new writers, new voices, new excitement!

Our last Rosendale fundraiser was a dream event, my Maya on stage with me, all the honorees that I love and respect, but for me the all time high was when grammy award winner Pete Seeger, one of my lifetime heroes, posed for this picture at our event...it doesn't get better than this.

Catch the Fire of Inspiration!

Sincerely,

Passing the Torch Through the Arts
